Ann Fulmer wants her students in the M.B.A. program at Benedictine University to learn that marketing is more than a mannequin in a window or telemarketer calling at dinner time. So after they learn how to develop and present comprehensive marketing plans, she connects them with real-world clients. You should see what her students can do for your business.

Read the rest of the Ann’s story at www.ben.edu/grow.