 - a. There are 5 "academic careers": undergraduate semester [all undergraduate students]; graduate quarter [master's level quarter credit]; graduate semester [master's level semester credit]; doctorate [doctoral level quarter credit]; doctoral semester [doctoral level semester credit].
 - b. Within each career, there are a number of "academic program". At the University, academic program is primarily used to make distinctions for student billing and financial aid purposes.
 - c. Within each program, there are a number of "academic plans". The academic plan is primarily used to indicate the student's major, minor, program [for graduate students], and/or certificate area.
 - d. Within each plan, there are a number of "academic sub-plans". The academic sub-plan is used to indicate, when appropriate, a students' cohort number, concentration, track, and/or the student's academic requirements rule set. The "Requirement Term" informs the academic advisement report tool of the academic year catalog requirements that will be applied to that particular student.
